Washington Receives Statement of Attitude Regarding Money Due U. S.

AMERICA BACKS CLAIMS.

Expect Hughs to Insist on Equal Rights of United States to Cash

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—The state department has received a communication from the British government explaining the attitude of Great Britain on the question of the collection of war damage claims from Germany by the United States under the Dawes reparation plan.

The British communication now is being studied and will be answered within a few days. In the light of what has been said by administration spokesmen on the question involved, it is considered certain that Secretary Hughes will insist upon recognition of the principle that American claims against Germany shall be treated as equal to those of other powers.

The Washington government always has taken the position that it is entitled to share to a limited extent in the proceeds of the Dawes plan and expects to be given the support of the allied governments. It has been pointed out by authorized spokesmen that the United States is entitled to be paid under its treaty with Germany just as the allied powers are entitled to payment under the terms of the Versailles treaty. In support of this position it is said that the American treaty with Germany furnishes both a legal and an equitable right for the collection of war claims from Germany out of benefits derived by that nation under the Dawes plan.

MEDIC TESTIFIES IN NIGHT MURDER

Three and Two Tenths Grains of Poison Found in Man's Body, Claim

By Associated Press
Mount Vernon, Ill.—Three and two tenths grains of deadly poison were found by him in the viscera of Wilford Sweetin, Dr. William D. McNally of Chicago testified Wednesday in the trial of Lawrence M. Higgins and Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, jointly charged with murder by poison of her husband.

Over the objection of defense attorneys, Dr. McNally was allowed to state that, if this amount of poison was found in the parts examined there would be other poison in the blood, brains and lungs. He testified that from two to three grains of the poison was sufficient to cause death.

Dr. McNally said the poison in question was odorless and tasteless and could be dissolved in water, soup, coffee or other liquid. Resuming his testimony where he left off late Tuesday, Dr. McNally first gave a detailed account of the method employed in detecting poison, an experiment which he said he had performed about ten thousand times.

There's No "Hot Air" to This Story

Even though it is about a gas range and a favorite coal stove.

They were advertised for sale by Mrs. Wm. Williams, 573 Walnut street. They may have given off a lot of hot air—but none of it got into this story.

So, we're just stating a cold fact when we say that they were both sold without any difficulty.

Those little ads are capable of generating a lot of heat themselves in the speed with which they get buyers for household goods—or for anything at all that is for sale.

If you want to warm things up around your house or place of business—an just call 543 and ask for an advertiser.

PROBE RUMOR LIQUOR FATAL TO INCE, FILM CHIEF, ON YACHT TRIP

Los Angeles — The illness and death of Thomas H. Ince, motion picture producer, subsequent to a yacht party in San Diego harbor last month, has been made the subject of an official investigation by District Attorney Chester C. Kempler of San Diego, the Los Angeles Times says Wednesday.

Ince died of acute indigestion superinduced heart failure, according to the report of his attending physicians. The circumstances surrounding this illness which apparently seized the producer early on Nov. 17, while aboard the International Film corporation yacht, Ondea, are what Kempler hopes to clear up with his investigation, the Times explains.

Among those so far interviewed by the district attorney, Tom, Dr. Truman A. Parker and Miss Jessie Howard, a trained nurse, have both stated the Times quotes Kempler as saying that Ince connected his illness with liquor.

NEW LONDON WOMAN ASKS BOND RETURN

Mrs. Louise Drafta Brown Starts Proceedings to Regain $30,000

By Associated Press
Chicago—A petition seeking the return by federal authorities of $30,000 taken from Mrs. Louise Drafta Brown, the New London, Wis., woman who attempted to furnish bail for Willis Newson, one of the train robbers who pleaded guilty in the $2,000,000 Roundout, Ill., mail robbery case, was filed in federal court Wednesday.

The money, the petition said, was taken from her safety deposit box in a south side bank.

She was held for a time by the federal authorities who had appeared after the arrest of Willis Newson and he had offered to give bond. She was taken into custody and the money taken charge of by the federal agents.

Federal Judge Cliffe granted the federal authorities 30 days in which to answer the petition.

Willis, and his brothers Jesse, Joseph and Willie, and Herbert Holliday and Brent Gisscock, all of whom pleaded guilty, some testifying for the government against William J. Early, former postoffice inspector, and James Murray, both of whom were convicted and now in Atlanta penitentiary serving 25-year sentences, are scheduled to appear Thursday to be sentenced.

Election of the new executive committee of 40 was to take place Wednesday.

Madison is designated as headquarters.

Incorporation of the society is the final step in reorganization of the organization which began a year ago at the annual convention. A campaign to liquidate a $32,000 debt was undertaken at that time. Officials reported at the convention here that the funds had been raised to meet the outstanding obligations. An extensive membership campaign will be undertaken immediately.

UNDERWOOD SEES HOPE OF PASSING SHOALS MEASURE

Alabama Senator Supported by Adoption of Amendments He Favors

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Consideration of amendments to the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill again was in order in the senate Wednesday with leaders hopeful of speeding progress of the measure to permit a final vote before the end of the week.

Having so far turned back all attacks on the bill by obtaining the rejection of amendments which he opposed, Senator Underwood, Democrat of Alabama, and author of the measure, has been supported by the adoption without a record vote of all amendments he favored. Some opponents of the Underwood bill joined with his supporters Wednesday in predicting passage of the measure this week and Senator Underwood himself expressed optimism over the outlook.

Congressional leaders, however, see little prospect of final enactment of Muscle Shoals legislation until well after the first of the year. Its passage by the senate, they point out, would send it to the house, where, if reported out after reference to a committee, it probably would carry amendments which if adopted by the house would result in its being sent to the conference. Both bodies would then have to adopt the conference report.

PATROLMEN HELD IN MILK WAR ROW

By Associated Press
Rockford, Ill.—Eugene Nester and Paul Clendenning, state highway patrolmen, arrested after the shooting Tuesday of Richard Saunders, farmhand, in the Boone-co milk war, gave bonds Tuesday night and are to be arraigned Wednesday. The condition of Saunders who is in a hospital in Belvidere, is regarded as critical.

The shooting occurred in a clash between patrolmen and pickets who attempted to prevent the delivery of a truckload of milk at a Garden Prairie creamery. Flies, bricks and finally pistols were used in the fight.

Charles Carlson, another farmhand, was severely injured about his head and face. The warrant issued for Clendenning charged assault and battery. No warrant, it was said, has been issued for Nester but both patrolmen were arrested by Sheriff Blair immediately after the shooting.

URGES STATE TO BUY WASTE LAND

Madison—Purchase by the state of approximately 160,000 acres of lands now contained in drainage districts but subject to tax deeds, was advocated by E. R. Jones, state drainage engineer, speaking Wednesday before the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Drainage association here.

The plan was advocated as a means of rehabilitating the lands and preventing speculators from getting control of the district. He said that the state could obtain deed to the lands by payment of less than $1,000,000 in taxes due on them. He urged the establishment of a large state game preserve with a portion of the lands.

Flint says he spent $15,000 last year depending on an aunt in Farmington to leave him her fortune. But her death proved her money to have been willed to a cousin.

MAN PARDOONED BY BLAINE IS SOUGHT IN EMBEZZLEMENT

Former Manager of Coffield Appliance Co. Charged with Theft of $5,000

By Associated Press
Milwaukee — Clarence R. Green, a former law student and more recently manager of the Coffield Appliance Co., is being sought by the police on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The amount of the shortage with which he is charged is $5,000, but authorities said it is expected to amount to $181,500.

A shortage in Green's accounts was uncovered several days ago after Green had telephoned his wife that he was leaving and did not know when he would return.

Auditors were placed on the books and evidences of forgeries of notes received from customers as part payment for purchases began to accumulate. Green, according to the prosecuting attorney who is in charge of the case, would take the notes, and forge the customer's name and keep the money collected. How long this has been continuing had not been determined.

Green served a year in the Green Bay reformatory, according to records here. He was arrested and convicted in Madison on a forgery charge, served a portion of his sentence and was pardoned by Governor John J. Blaine.

Green, according to the district attorney, began his fraudulent activities two years ago. The company he represented sells washing machines which are manufactured in Dayton, O. A large portion of the sales is on the time basis and an acceptance company handled the notes taken for the machines.

Investigation of the accounts of the company show that Green collected from the purchasers. This, officials find, has been continuing for nearly two years.

America Approves Of Appointing Jurists To Codify World Law

United States for Many Years Has Been Striving to Reach Basis of Common Agreement

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—Decision by the council of the league of nations at Rome to summon 15 jurists of world-wide fame to draft a code of international law will receive the cooperation of America.

For many years the United States government has been anxious to see a start made toward the real codification of international law. Elihu Root succeeded in including a clause to that effect in the Republican national platform of 1920. Mr. Harding was in sympathy with the project and both President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes have since emphasized its importance. Indeed, in the last message to congress, Mr. Coolidge made a special paragraph on the subject which now has been taken seriously by the league of nations whose initiative in calling the conference is the first practical step taken since 1908. It is pertinent in view of the action by the league of nations council to quote Mr. Coolidge's exact words:

"Our country should also support efforts which are being made toward the codification of international law. We can look more hopefully, in the first instance, for research and studies that are likely to be productive of results, to a cooperation of representatives of the bar and members of international law institutes and societies, than to a conference of those who are technically representatives of their respective governments, although when projects have been developed they must go to the governments for their approval. These expert professional studies are going on in certain quarters and should have our constant encouragement and approval."

LAWMAKERS WITH PARTY

Wife's Uncle Wished to Tell President of Her Relations with Defendant

By Associated Press
Chicago — Elias H. Mortimer, chief government witness against Charles R. Forbes and J. W. Thompson, on trial for conspiracy in Veterans Bureau hospital contract awards, told in a cross examination Wednesday of a trip to the White House in 1923 with J. B. Williams of Philadelphia and others, when Williams protested to President Harding over Forbes' private conduct. He took Williams, Mrs. Mortimer's uncle, to the White House, the witness said, because Williams "wanted to protest to President Harding about the way Forbes was running around with Mrs. Mortimer."

Representative Edmonds of Pennsylvania was another member of the party which Mortimer took to the president. Mortimer on the stand Wednesday for his third day of cross examination, denied that he ever had a "White House" party and that President Harding ever had been a guest at his Warman Park hotel apartment in Washington.

RAKE UP INDICTMENT

The witness was questioned also about an indictment against him in New York in May, 1923, for violation of the Volstead act which had been "disposed of without trial after he had presented the case in person to Mrs. Mabel G. Wildbrandt, special assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition litigation.

James S. Easby-Smith, counsel for Forbes, completed his cross examination half a dozen questions about the New York indictment and Mortimer's movements in Washington before the senate committee began its investigation into the bureau. The witness was then turned over to Randolph Laughlin, St. Louis attorney retained by Thompson, who traced again every step in the relations between Mortimer, Forbes and Thompson since they met for the first time in Washington in the spring of 1922.

Dr. Lesley Impressed with Devotion to Christianity at Lawrence

"The most striking aspect of them all? Why I would say their spirit of service, and their open frankness and sincerity." Thus Dr. Elmer Lesley, of the department of theology in Boston University, classified the students of Lawrence.

Dr. Lesley, visiting schools in the country in the interest of Christian work, came to Lawrence Tuesday. After speaking to student assembly in chapel in the morning, he had conferences with interested students. The remaining part of the day, "I found among them all," he declared, "a desire to serve, and, moreover, to serve in a religious way. The girls desired to do Christian work in teaching. One said to me in a frank open way: 'Dr. Lesley, I want to be a home builder, but in the meantime I must prepare to give my best to the home.' They are all very much in earnest and very sincere."

He relates that while at Albion college in Michigan, he broached the question to Prof. Goodrich, who has been a teacher in the institution for thirty-two years, whether the boys and girls of today are better than those of years ago. Dr. Goodrich replied in a flash, "Infinitely better!"

In chapel in the morning, Dr. Lesley spoke on "Ideals," taking as his text the fifty-first chapter of Jeremiah. He emphasized that religious ideals—Jerusalem of the text—are needed "to make a full, well-rounded life; to bring in life most of all joy; and to produce in life the note of complete triumph. For these three things we must place religion in the center of our lives. It is not a frill, but a predominating influence."

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO RUTH ELLINGTON CONTINUED

The first year of Jack's and my married life was comparatively happy, although we had to make many adjustments. The second year, you know, dear little Jack came to me after my serious illness, and I found out about the pearls. (I wish Karl had never conceived the romantic idea of collecting them.)

It was not until the beginning of the third year that I found out that little Jack was my husband's own child. I forgave him (ah, but now, dear, how Jack looks at me), but I am wondering if I would have forgiven Jack if the whole scandal had become public property and my pride hurt as well as my faith in Jack.

You know, dear, you said you thought I should tell Jack if I had the slightest idea he would hear it from any one else. Your intuition was correct; but Ruth, I did not expect that I would be stabbed in the back by my own sister; and it never occurred to me, even if some one else told my husband, that when he heard the truth of the whole story, he would accuse me not only of duplicity, himself but to the very name of wife.

I was so happy, dear, to think that Jack and I could say when our third anniversary came around that with all the stress and storm of the last three years, we had really never had a great difference—a difference that lasted over 24 hours. Then, the very last day and afternoon, biff-bang—and everything went up in smoke.

It just seems as though I am a target of the anonymous letter writer. I wonder if everybody gets two or three anonymous letters in his life. Usually these letters are more or less a tissue of lies, and I think it is about the meanest way in all the world of breaking the ninth commandment and hearing false witness against one's neighbor.

In my case, however, the story happened to be true, but even though I suspect that my own sister wrote it, her pen was tipped with the venom of jealousy, and she intimidated that Karl and I were still lovers.

Can anything be more terrible than the tragedy that has come to me? Like lightning out of a clear sky I find that my sister has betrayed me, and my husband thinks I have betrayed him. Could anything be worse?

Oh, Ruth, I don't know what to do. If I should tell Karl what has happened, if I should show him the letter which Jack, in his excitement did not ask me to return to him, Karl would never marry Alice—and that would complicate matters further.

I think perhaps the best thing of all is to have a regular showdown between Alice, Karl, Jack and myself—and you, my dear, because you now so much about it—all together, and simply have the matter settled once for all. Just now, however, I am too worried about my father, and too hurt and unhappy to think it would be worth the trouble.

If I did were well I would go to him and tell him the whole thing. He would understand. But my dear, gentle mother would probably never be able to believe that one of her daughters had done such a thing as I am sure Alice has done.

Jack has sent me no word since I came over here. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

THREE MOONSHINERS GO TO JAIL; ONE IS IN WORKHOUSE

Ill Health Keeps Three From Pounding Stone at Wagner's Hotel

Four moonshiners said temporary farewell to their families Tuesday, to set up their saratogs in county penal institutions. They will be absent for 30 days each, one of them pounding stone at the county workhouse and three of them confined to the county jail. The three were physically unable to endure the severe penalty.

The man to go to the workhouse was Anton Hoeders, Appleton, whose home had been raided by a federal prohibition officer on Oct. 10. It was the man's second offense and that is one reason why he was not able to evade the workhouse.

The three to go to jail for 30 days each were Reinhold Volz, Edwin Morasch and John Haynes, all Horton farmers. All had entered a plea of guilty but pleaded the workhouse. One was a cripple, and the other two complained of poor health.

Aaron Deeg of Appleton, and Emil Magadan of Hortonia entered pleas of not guilty and were bound over for trial on moonshine charges. Deeg will be heard Dec. 19 and Magadan on Dec. 22.

GERMAN DECIPHERS BABYLONIAN MUSIC COMPOSED 800 B. C.

Curator of Berlin High School of Music Accomplishes Difficult Task

Berlin—The Berlin music written about the year 800 B. C. which has been deciphered by Dr. Kurt Sachs, curator of the instruments collection in the Berlin high school of music, apparently was played on a 22 string harp and the notes have many characteristic similarities to the Chinese music of today. The instrument on which the music was played used octaves, double octaves and chords in fourths and fifths.

Details of the task of deciphering the music were described at the Prussian Academy of Science recently by Professor C. Schumacher, furnished by Dr. Sachs. The earlier, were tablet upon which the music had been recorded has been found for a long time in the middle eastern section of the Prussian State Museum. In size it is roughly equal to five ordinary bricks. The tablet was unearthed in Assur, the Babylonian capital, and while the music is believed to have been recorded has received for a long 800 B. C. It is thought to represent notes of even a much earlier period.

The inscription is in three columns. The first column contains some marks heretofore undeciphered and the second is a religious poem, descriptive of the creation of man from the blood of the gods, in the Sumerian tongue—Sumerian, even then long dead, except as a language of religion and the law. The third is a faulty translation of the poem in Assyrian.

The inscription in the first column written in cuneiform, consisted of Sumerian words of one syllable, written upon line, but apparently without sequence or meaning. Heretofore it had defied the efforts of the Assyriologists, as has also a somewhat similar tablet in the British Museum, London, containing six columns, of which the first and fourth were undecipherable.

The Assyriologists at the Prussian Museum recently conceived the idea that the first column might be intended to express a rhythm or even time, and Doctor Sachs taking up this theory as a practical musician and antiquarian, began to test it. In 70 lines he found 62 different syllables. By a process of condensation Dr. Sachs reduced all the sounds and after overcoming a great many other difficulties, poetry and is entitled "Almanac on he concluded that the cuneiform notation represented a polyphonic system.

50 GALLONS OF WHISKEY FOUND IN SEVEN RAIDS

Scherck and French Conduct Drive Against Moonshiners in County

Last week was a terrifying one to a number of moonshiners in the eastern part of the county, for seven raids were made by Walter Scherck, deputy sheriff, in company with D. P. French, Anti-Saloon league superintendent. As a result the distillers, dispensers and peddlers of illicit liquor have dug a little deeper into their holes.

In the series of raids the deputy sheriff confiscated five moonshine stills, two coolers, 520 gallons of mash and 50 gallons of moonshine whisky. Most of the stills were of a 30-gallon capacity. Only on one farm was the officer unsuccessful in his search. The man had been arrested and served time before and undoubtedly profited by experience, for he was too quick for the officer. Later in the evening the deputy sheriff received a "tip" that the still they did not find was being moved to another hiding place and immediately a second trip was made, but the man had eluded the officer a second time.

Among the most recent raids were those on the Reinhold Volz and John Haynes farms, both in the town of Hortonla. A still, a cooler and about 200 gallons of mash were found on each place, it was charged. In addition, 35 gallons of illicit liquor was found on the Volz farm.

FARMER DISMANTLES ELLINGTON CHURCH

In a few days the last traces of the old Evangelical church in the town of Ellington will have been removed and another landmark will have disappeared. The church was built about 43 years ago and a large congregation once flourished here. But removal of a large number of members, together with the growing use of automobiles hastened the disbanding of the congregation. The last service in the old church was held at Easter in 1923. Members of the faith were last served here by the Rev. W. J. Ahe of Appleton. The building was sold recently to Paul Ashman of the town of Center who is now dismantling it to use some of the lumber in building a house.

U. S. TOY MAKERS NOW DOMINATE U. S. MARKET FOR TOYS

Foreign Competition Weakened When War Put Americans on Their Feet

Appleton toy factories are sharing the general prosperity of the toy industry in America. One of the results of the world war is that the American toy industry is in many lines surpassing the European industry of the same nature and the old "Made in Germany" trade mark is no longer feared.

Were one to make a tour of the toy departments in Appleton stores, one would find a preponderance of American made toys, especially among the toys of the better class. Germany still retains a considerable hold on the trade in low priced mechanical toys, and Japan is a formidable competitor in the doll business, but juvenile furniture, toy furniture and the larger wooden toys furnish a profitable field for the American industries. The higher priced, fine finished, hand-made toys, made in Appleton and other American cities, find a ready market in the metropolitan stores.

The Appleton Toy and Furniture company on South Division-st which has been directed by Herbert Kahn since the death of his father, Julius Kahn, last summer, has enjoyed a healthy run all year. At the present time it has orders booked for many months ahead. Orders for Christmas toys in spite of the nearness of this holiday are still being filled and overtime work has to be employed to cope with the situation.

Because toy manufacture is a seasonal business, the Appleton factory puts out another line of products after the Christmas season until early summer, and that is porch furniture. The predicted boom in business that was to follow election was plainly observed in the toy business, for the very day after election the Appleton factory received several carload specifications by wire and others by mail immediately after, but the firm was unable to fill them because it already had orders booked ahead as far as July 1.

The unsettled conditions produced by the election campaign especially by the three party situation and the possibility of deadlock began to vanish, and jobbers who were afraid to stock up began to buy immediately. Continuance of the administration that is in power seemed to restore confidence in the trade.

—and No Place to Go!

We find ourselves, almost without realizing it, a nation on wheels.

We drive or ride in 16,000,000 motor vehicles.

We pack the paved highways coming in and out of town. We over-run even so-called remote regions. And we are pounding to pieces all but permanent roads.

Next year 4,000,000 new cars will be on the road. Compared to this increase, the mileage of new permanent roads will be insignificant.

We don't want to be a nation on wheels, with no place to go.

The answer is, build more, and where necessary, wider concrete roads—and start building them now.

Not in a long time have general conditions been so favorable for carrying on such public works as permanent highway building.

Your highway authorities are ready to carry on their share of this great public work. But they must have your support.

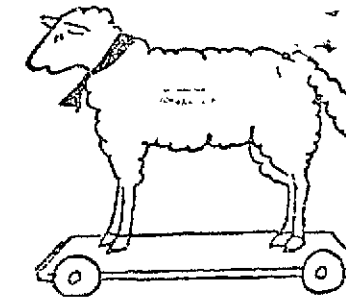

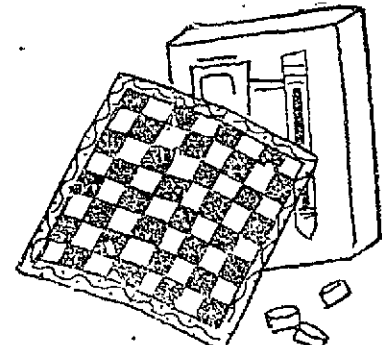

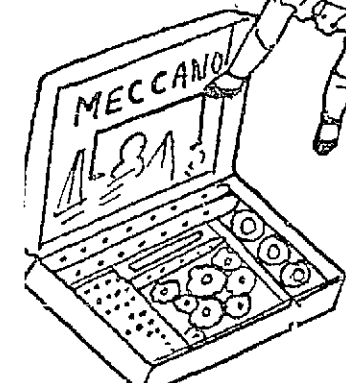

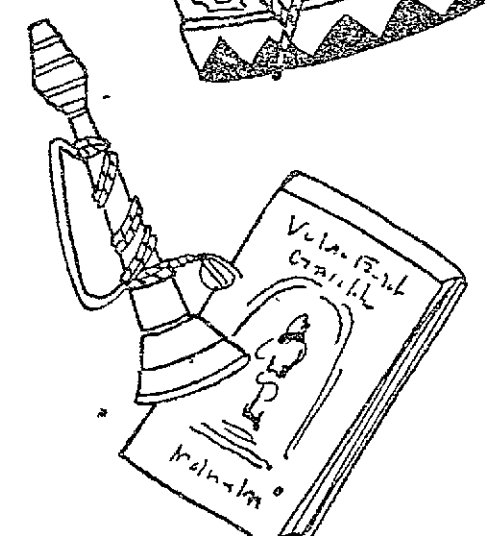

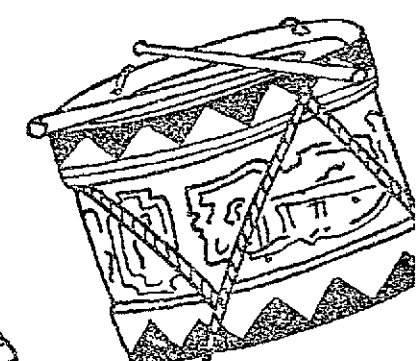

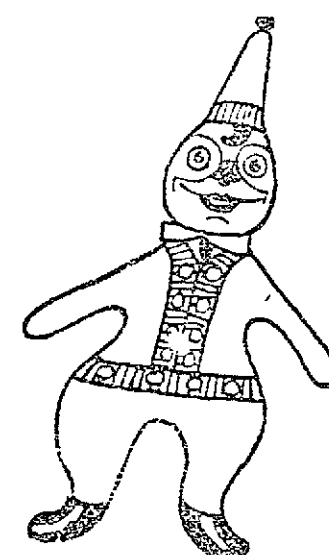

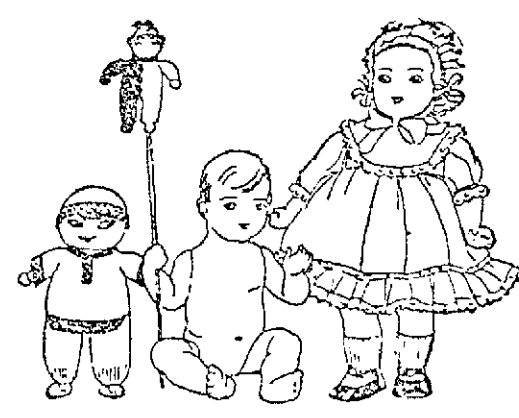

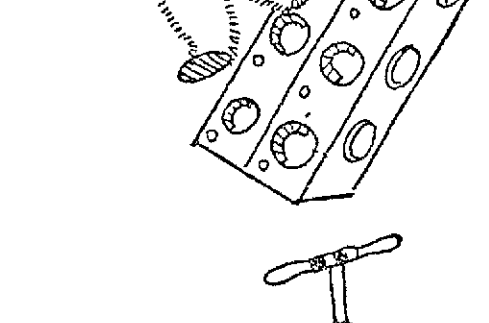

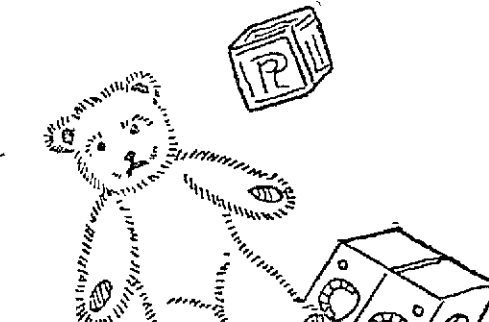

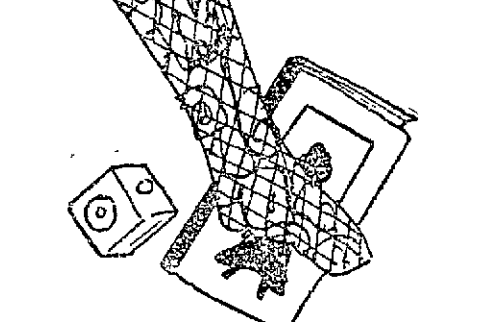

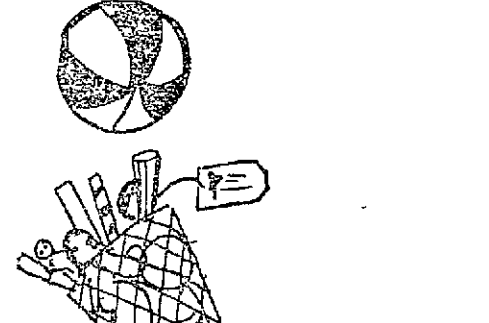

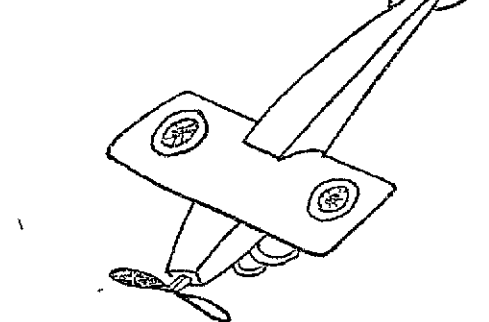

Tell them you are ready to invest in more Concrete Highways, now.

RURAL MAILMEN ASK COOPERATION

Christmas mail is beginning to increase on the rural mail routes. The parcel post handled by the local rural carriers has increased considerably over that part of the previous weeks and is steadily growing. While a good deal of it is mail order house shipments, gift packages exchanged between friends and relatives separated by great distances are beginning to be sent.

Patrons who are expecting parcels are urged by carriers to wait for them at the boxes so that they may be delivered safely. When the weather is cold, the snow deep and the time short, it is not very convenient for the carriers to get out of their cars and take the parcels into the homes and then resume their trip after being chilled through, they indicated. A little cooperation from the patrons is appreciated by the carriers.

COLLEGE-AVE MERCHANT WILL GO OUT OF BUSINESS

The new proprietor plans to remodel the store slightly. The transaction was made through Carroll, Thomas and Carroll.

NORMAL SCHOOL STUDENTS PAID $1,320 IN TUITION

STAGE AND SCREEN

THE STORY WITHOUT A NAME
Manager Louis Lutz announces that there will be no advance in admission prices for the new Paramount Prize picture, "The Story Without a Name," which opens at the Appleton Theater on Thursday, Dec. 11, on Agnes Ayres and Antonio Moreno.

Agnes Ayres in the Paramount Picture "The Story Without a Name"

AT THE APPLETON THEATER, THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

are featured in the production, directed by Irvin Willat from Arthur Stringer's Photoplay Magazine radio tale. Stringer, it will be recalled, is the author of Gloria Swanson's Paramount starring vehicle, "Manhattan," also "Empty Hands," in which Jack Holt was featured with Norma Shearer playing in support.

There's a great cast supporting the principals in "The Story Without a Name." It's a fast moving action-romance that you'll love.

Others in the cast include Louis Washeim, Maurice Costello, Jack Balm and Ivan Lenau.

STRONG THEME OF LOVE IN "SANDRA"

A strong theme is offered in "Sandra." Barbara La Marr's latest first National picture being shown at the Elite Theater tonight, for the last time.

Acting in the title role, Barbara is depicted as a woman with a restless heart. She craves love, yet she knows not where to find it.

Her quest carries her throughout the capitals and gay spots of Europe, and she meets with numerous novel experiences. Yet the real love she seeks is not to be found.

Finally Sandra returns to her home town, and there she discovers love, right on her own doorstep.

Bert Lytell is Miss La Marr's leading man, and the couple have an admirable supporting cast.

Players in "Love and Glory," the Rupert Julian-Universal-Jewel spectacle film which has its first local showing at the Elite Theater tomorrow, has a range of characterization which extends from gay youth to faltering old age. There's a time lapse of fifty years, and a beautiful romance is woven through the entire theme.

The all-star cast features Charles De Roche, Wallace MacDonald, Madge Bellamy, Gibson Gowland, Ford Sterling, Charles De Lavigne and Priscilla Dean Moran.

"BETWEEN FRIENDS" OFFERS STRONG APPEAL TO SCREEN FANS

"Between Friends" at the New Bijou today and Thursday is one of those photoplays that one would enjoy seeing a second time. The action starts with the first flash and continues until the end without a break.

The cast is exceptionally well selected. Lou Tellegen as Drene, the sculptor, whose wife deserts him, leaving a broken, half-mad man to battle alone, does some of the best work of his career in this production.

Anna Q. Nilsson as the wife who runs away and later repents, and takes the long journey from which there is no return, adds new gems to her long string of successes.

"Between Friends" is a picture in which variety plays an important factor. There is a constant contrasting of emotions and action. The tropical climate of Bermuda with Christmas eve in New York, the modeling of an undraped statue with the modeling of a Madonna, the intense dramatic appeal of strong action with the gaieties of a Greenwich Village Frolic. In this manner, Robert W. Chambers wrote an unusual story and Stuart Blackton produced a screen masterpiece.

Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

SAFE DRIVERS CLUB WILL MEET FRIDAY

Affiliation with Sheboygan Safe Drivers club in the statewide safety movement will be considered at an important meeting of Outagamie Safe Drivers club called by Dr. W. H. Meeker, president, for 7:15 Friday evening at the chamber of commerce rooms. It is possible that a delegate will be elected to a state meeting which will be held later. There are about half a dozen clubs in the state and it is the plan of the Sheboygan safety advocates to unite them in a campaign to organize one in each county and then attempt a statewide program for highway safety. Safety legislation also will be considered by Outagamie club at its meeting. A law to license all drivers of motorcars is one of the issues.

Collegians Entertain At Kiwanis Luncheon

HAROLD JENS

MAXINE HELMER

Three acts were presented before the Kiwanis club at the dinner Wednesday as the project of "The Tormentors." Lawrence dramatic organization. "The Tormentors" have for their purpose productions employing nothing but student talent. Plays, skills, and revues will be given, written by students, with scenery constructed in their own workshop, and students as players. The group was formed last year, but has been reorganized with Prof. F. W. Orr in charge of the production. Prof. F. W. Clipping supervising the composition. Harold Jens, Appleton, is president; Russel Spoor, Berlin, vice president; Maxine Helmer, Iron River, Mich., secretary-treasurer. The program for the Kiwanians included Maxine Helmer and LaVahn Maesch, pianist; Dorothy Adst and Muriel Hammond in a skit, "Topsy and Eva." Earl Sherman and John Wilcox in a dark faced comedy. "The Tormentors" have been asked to supervise the annual May Day pageant. In order to promote original work the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. have offered a prize of $25 to the student writing an acceptable play. Another "tormentor" plan for spring is the staging of an extensive revue, a new idea of Lawrence, but nothing definite has been done in this field.

RADIO PROGRAMS

The "Brunswick Hour of Music" broadcast from several stations, featuring nationally known artists of the Metropolitan Opera Co. and Cleveland Orchestra, was exceptionally fine. Many local listeners stuck to WGY all evening. Other fine programs Tuesday evening were orchestra music from WTAS, Elgin, Ill., the midnight review, featuring Brother Welch on the McVicker theatre organ from KYYW, Chicago, and the Red Apple club from WCCX, Detroit.

Many local fans who have sent amply cards to WJIAQ, Chicago daily News station, received copies of the Chicago Daily News Radio Photologue for December on Thursday. It is an interesting booklet containing pictures of foreign lands and some radio matter.

WCCO at St. Paul-Minneapolis has a real treat for fans Wednesday evening with the Tyrollean Alpine Yodlers in a new group of selections they start at 9 o'clock. The Golden Pheasant orchestra concludes the program, beginning at 10:30.

WAHG, Richmond Hills, N. Y., broadcasts the Radio Santa Claus Wednesday night. Anyone whether six, sixteen, or sixty can receive a gift by dropping a card to Santa at that address. Radio sets and parts, silk stockings, umbrellas, sweaters, vanity cases, skates, girdles, purses, cigars pipes tobacco and even a few flasks are among the things that await the lucky ones. The biggest prize of the group is a bungalow, completely equipped, and a lot. The house and lot gift is to emphasize the four needs of humanity—food, shelter, clothing and radio. The Gift house will have a radio set in first-class working order.

The Sins of Her Parents

MARIE'S life was a cruelly restricted one. She was denied all companionship with young men, deprived of the simple pleasures every girl loves.

Her father brought home a young Frenchman whom she was to marry. Marie detested him. He was like a sleek, well-fed pig.

Then she met Sandy McCandless—big, gentle, lovingly tender. Sandy asked her to marry him. She took him home, that her parents might approve their love.

Little she dreamed of the startling

Other Startling Life Stories in January True Story are:

"The Acid Test"—She lived in New York's gay Greenwich Village, where she married and moved to a suburban town. But soon memories of gay dinners, jolly dances, and the hectic night-life of Broadway began to haunt her. With her husband's consent, she went back for a visit—little dreaming in what a whirlwind of mad events her longing for the gay life was to lead her. A thrilling, plainly-told story with an unexpected outcome.

"The Men Women Want"—Of humble birth, Judith longed for mental culture, pictures, music, books. So when she became private secretary to Loring MacVeigh, his broad education and culture made a profound impression on her mind. She had not learned that under the guise of refinement there may lurk the vilest beast.

"The Mistle Wite"—When Mary married, she did not dream that temptation or the slightest thought of disloyalty to her husband ever could threaten her sacred vows. Yet, when an old sweetheart offered her his love and wealth, she was tried by fires from which only a woman of innate purity and strength could emerge unscathed. If you think that wealth and leisure, and selfish joys are the only worth-while things in life, read this girl's confession—every word of which is true.

"Woman Against Woman"—When Sally listened to the solemn promises of the rich young Henry Harris—and trouble came—his proud mother sought to spirit him off to Europe. But a respectable old doctor turned blackmailer to save the girl whose innocence and ignorance of life came so near resulting in tragedy.

"Her One Temptation"—Minnette thought a girl was a fool to marry only for love—unless money, pretty clothes, good times went along with it. She did not know the frightful price girls pay who seek happiness in purely material things—not that when she encouraged the attentions of a rich but unscrupulous man, that she was dooming herself to the lowest depths of degradation and bitter suffering.

SORDID THEME IN BEAUTIFUL SETTING IN ARIEN'S NOVEL

"Lady of the Green Hat" Is Unusual Combination Music and Jazz

BY ELEANOR WING

The Green Hat, by Michael Arlen, published recently by Doran, is a book with a personality. The reader feels as he finishes the story, exactly as though he had shaken hands with a stranger in a crowded room, and been drawn in, compelled by the magnetism that always accompanies a vivid personality. But this is only the first impression. There is no chance in the midst of a crowd for analysis, no place for intimacy, no scales to weigh the stranger's worth. Consequently there can be no criticism in the first meeting, in the crowded room.

But in an epic, the theme is the essence, even though it is couched in the glorious ringing style of Homer and Virgil. One can often detect metrical beauty in the swing of the words, such as "They do not love, those men, they stand in wonder before the power to love that is in them. And theirs the pleasure of a spurious conceit; theirs the pain of a spurious disengagement." Musical words and a great thought. But the author has the power to combine these two virtues only occasionally. Usually the words are music, and the thought jazz.

Even the characters are given the wrong turn before the story is finished. Iris, the lady of the Green Hat, sins throughout the story. Her greatest fault is not that she does wrong, but that she is incapable of doing right. After a cycle of unworthy, immoral, and selfish deeds, she finds herself in love with Napier, the husband of Venice. This isn't strange because Iris can fall easily in and out of love. But it is tragic because Venice loves Napier with the only unselfish passion exhibited in the whole story. Iris promises not to steal Napier away; but a promise is only troth to the lady of the Green Hat. They plan to elope, and in a marvelous scene at the end of the story a council of old friends summons Iris to upbraid her for doing a thing that is contrary to the codes of gentlemen and women the world over. Venice, "pale, wide-eyed, steady as judgment," comes to the council chamber, and makes her great sacrifice of Napier to Iris. But we are not allowed to extol Venice's great piece of heroism; for Iris leaves the group of old friends, hurriedly, dashes off in the long low car, and plunges into the river, leaving her green hat on the bank for all to see. She must even have the glory of martyrdom, as another star in her dynamic career.

Even though she steals the honor that belongs to Venice, one cannot hate her. Arlen has painted her in a way that is no more definite than sunset, and yet is not easily forgotten. "And white she was, very white, and her painted mouth was purple in the dim light, and her eyes which seemed set wide apart, were cool, impersonal, and blazing blue, like two spoonfuls of Mediterranean in the early morning of a brilliant day."

And the weakness of her whole character was her acquiescence which she vowed was inherited, to desire "The desire that is a child with hungry eyes with whom a dragon lies wading."

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD NULDER

THE PROVINCIALISM OF READERS

We pride ourselves on pre-entirely civilization and on the social much of progress. Public speakers become "we" in their admiration over the fact that by means of wireless and other means of communication, we can know about an event almost before it happens on the other side of the world.

All well and good, but anyone who thinks that we of today have outgrown provincialism and are citizens of the world except in a very narrow, extremely narrow, sense fools himself. It is possible to inform the other side of the world as to what happens on this side almost at the moment that it is happening, but there will be no genuine escape from provincialism for either side of the world until the communication established between the two halves gives each the best the other has. A mere intercommunication of trivialities does not necessarily break down provincialism.

NOBEL PRIZE PROVED IT

How provincial we still are shown again and again when the winner of a Nobel prize for literature is announced. Considerably more than half of the winners have made the people in this country and England look blank. When Knut Hamsun was named in 1920 H. G. Wells confessed that he had never heard Hamsun and H. G. Wells can certainly not be accused of being more provincial than the average. And that in spite of the fact that Hamsun had been known as a distinguished writer for 25 or 30 years in the Scandinavian countries. It was not Hamsun's fault that we in America and the people in England did not know about him. It was due to the fact that we are still extremely provincial as readers.

The same fact was driven home to me a week or two ago when the announcement was made that Ladislas Reymont, a Polish writer had been awarded the Nobel prize for literature for 1924. I had never heard the name started on its popular career. The Putnam figures show that more than 1,000,000 copies have been sold in all countries.

LOUD APPLAUSE

E. M. Forster's "A Passage to India" is receiving a chorus of praise from American reviewers and Harcourt, Brace and Company report a second large printing within ten days of publication.

before and I am quite certain that not one person in a million in this country not of Polish blood had the least conception who Reymont was or what he had done.

CANDIDATE WORTHY

And yet the fact develops that the presentation of the Nobel prize for literature appears to have been based on a worthy candidate. We are told that the prize was awarded because of a great four volume novel, "The Peasants" and the author is described as a distinguished figure in Polish literature.

The murmur of defense made by people to excuse their ignorance of a great name in literature when such a name is thrown under the spotlight by such a circumstance as the award of the Nobel prize is "Well, you can't read everything one can't even keep up with what is being done in this country."

But that doesn't hold water, or is it? It is irrelevant. The reason why we don't know about the great writers of an alien civilization are doing so because we are still hide bound in provincialism. The channels of communication between various sections of the globe are still so few and so small that there might as well be no communication at all. If given free play, almost every book finds its natural audience and the work of the distinguished Polish writer who has just been honored would have found its readers in this country if it had been made available to them. We miss the great things that some foreigners are doing not because there is too much to read here as it is but because we can't cut at the work of the foreigners. Each reader chooses his own reading anyway and if the work of the foreigners is his kind of stuff he will naturally gravitate toward it and ignore other material that is not his stuff. Reading must necessarily be self-selecting.

We know a little something of war politicians in other countries are talking a lot but the really important news about other lands is the news of what the artists and writers and poets are thinking about. We are main more or less ignorant of in spite of the boasted advance of communication. We are still provincials.

An English pathologist has discovered that bad temper increases the amount of sugar in the blood by 10 to 20 per cent.

Gossip About Book People

WHY I WROTE "PROFESSOR HOW COULD YOU?"

By Harry Leon Wilson

Novelists write first for their own entertainment. That is, they write the kind of stories they prefer to read. No novelist has ever confessed this— from calculated modesty, I suppose—but the secret might as well be blurted out because everyone else must long ago have guessed it. I wrote "Professor, How Could You?" then because I like best to read light, funny stories with enough realism—not "realism"—to give firmness to the fabric. Of course I read the other sort of those who have taken up literature in a really serious way—as the saying goes—but, frankly, I'd rather read one of my own than most of them. That is why I write a few to have something to fall back on. That and the circumstance that in-curious publishers discover leaders of my own taste in such numbers that I am enabled to live a life of approximate idleness.

Last Week of School

This will be the last week of evening school classes before Christmas at Appleton vocational school, according to an announcement on Monday. The next term will begin Jan. 5.

Wellknown Creator Of Limberlost Tales Dies

Gene Stratton Porter, 58, author of "Freckles," and "Girl of the Limberlost," which are perhaps among the favorite books on the shelf of the teenage girl, was fatally injured Saturday night in Los Angeles, Calif., when her automobile crashed into a streetcar.

Mrs. Porter and her chauffeur, J. J. Crowdy, were rushed to the receiving hospital, where it was found that the former had suffered a fractured skull. She died a few hours later. Crowdy was injured seriously, but will live, according to the report of physicians.

There are probably few readers in America who have not read and loved the stories of the Limberlost, which Mrs. Porter has reproduced with all the glow and beauty of butterfly, moth, bird and plant life. But Mrs. Porter was not only a writer of the beauty she saw in the Limberlost, a place which, by the way, is probably situated near Rome City, Indiana, since the author's home is called Limberlost Cabin, and is located in Rome City. She was an illustrator and past master with a camera, and for many years was connected with the photographic department of natural history on magazines such as Outing, Recreation, and Photographic Times. Annual almanac.

"The Song of the Cardinal" was the last novel published by Mrs. Porter in 1922. Since that time, the wellknown books, "The Harvesters," "Laddie," "Mothers of the Limberlost," "Michael O'Halloran," "A Daughter of the Land," "Her Father's Daughter," have been published. None of them, however, quite reached the popularity of "Freckles" and "A Girl of the Limberlost."

GRAUSTARK BOOK IN BIGGEST DEMAND

New McCutcheon Novel Sets Pace at Appleton Public Library

"East of the Setting Sun," another tale of Graustark by George Barr McCutcheon, is the book that was most popular at Appleton Public Library last week. McCutcheon is the author of "Graustark," "Beverly of Graustark," and other tales of that roman-tic kingdom.

"Rose of the World" by Kathleen Norris continues to be much in demand, although interest in it has first novel published by Mrs. Porter in 1902. Since that time, the wellknown books, "The Harvesters," "Laddie," "Mothers of the Limberlost," "Michael O'Halloran," "A Daughter of the Land," "Her Father's Daughter," have been published. None of them, however, quite reached the popularity of "Freckles" and "A Girl of the Limberlost."

Mrs. Porter is to be buried in the Limberlost, it is said.

abated slightly with the coming of newer books. "The White Monkey," by John Galsworthy, "Professor, How Could You?" by Harry Leon Wilson and "The True Sarah Bernhardt" by Basil Woon are three other books that have been called for more than usually. "The Little French Girl" by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, which is described by the publishers as one of the greatest novels of the decade, has been quite popular during the last week. Of it is said, "The Little French Girl" is not written for a missing year or generation. Life, limpid, clear, beautiful, flows through these pages. Here, undoubtedly, is a novel that is destined to stand for years as the finest study of English and French life and character."

In the children's department, the books that have been most called for are "Oliver Twist" by Dickens, "Penny Rod and Sam" by Booth Tarkington, "Roosevelt's Letters" and "The Prince and the Pauper" by Mark Twain.

WHO IS NOT the GAINER?

THE time draws daily nearer when Kohler of Kohler will be renowned for what it is, no less than for what it makes.

In the Village of Kohler, where houses are homes and yards are gardens, an experiment is unfolding. And it is succeeding beyond even our dreams—surely beyond yours if you have never passed this way.

Here in this friendly community, closely knit by common interest, the daily task of making good enameled plumbing ware and private electric plants goes on quietly side by side with the process of making good American homes and citizens.

When civic pride and pride of workmanship join hands, as in the good old days, who is not the gainer?

Prosperity and Gasoline

Genuine prosperity is with us when all men are employed creating new wealth—new merchandise—which is passed to the consuming public at prices which give them full value for the money spent.

New wealth is active wealth and active wealth, like active labor, is that which is employed making the world a better, happier place in which to live.

The man who owns an oil well is not prosperous unless there is an active demand for his oil. The mere possession of oil signifies nothing—it is of no profit. It is valuable only when it is put to use.

The main function of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is to make oil usable and to put the finished products where people can get them without effort.

By bringing oil products within the reach of everyone, at prices low enough to make them available to all, this Company creates new wealth and makes it active and usable.

A gallon of gasoline manufactured by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has a definite economic value, because it represents a potential service when put to use in a running motor.

The power—the service—latent in this gasoline will propel your car 8 to 22 miles in the pursuit of business or pleasure.

In using it you derive pleasure or profit—or both—and by using it you are adding to the general prosperity—by releasing a definite amount of capital for further use.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) serves you through its scientific discoveries, through its progressive use of chemical knowledge, through its efficient refinery administration, through its modern business organization, through its forward-looking labor policy, and through the high quality and wide distribution of its products.

All these functions of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are at the service of every one who needs and buys a gallon of gasoline. The man who drives a Ford commands the immense resources of this organization as truly as does the man who operates a fleet of trucks.

BOOKS AND BOOK MEN

IN BRITISH POLITICS

The Plot of Life is the title of a new book by Mr. Strachey, published this month by Putnam. Mr. Strachey, as editor of the London Spectator and a leading figure in British politics has played a prominent part in the world of British letters and political life for a period covering nearly a half century. His new book, written in philosophical form, is in a sense a direct sequel to "The Adventure of Living" written by Mr. Strachey a year or two ago.

WOMEN SOLDIERS

Stuart P. Sherman has health admiration for feminine good sense, no has made the lady the central figure in his new book, My Dear Cornelia, and he takes her opinions seriously. He also maintains that if girls were eligible for military service they would do so well in the Army Intelligence Tests that ninety-nine per cent of the men would be obliged to serve in the ranks. He has found that that "Among women there is an immediate reaction to stimuli, a freedom from dubitation subordinate considerations and inhibiting after thoughts which makes them invaluable members of a General Staff, when the General Staff is infested with doubting Thomases, Hamlets and authorities on red tape."

NOVEL REVIVAL

The Rovers by Florence B. Barclay published fifteen years ago by Putnam, still continues to have a sale here and in England of 20,000 copies a year. During the summer just past the story appeared to have a revival and exceeded this mark. Since it

Crossword Puzzle

This picture shows, as well as today's crossword puzzle, Rev. and Mrs. George F. McElvick, Piquette (Pa.) minister and wife. The pastor used this puzzle in his Sunday sermon. Every word in the puzzle, except the one, is to be found in the Bible. As the congregation guessed the words, his wife wrote in the letters on a board live test square. The definitions and numbers here are just as the pastor gave them to his congregation. Although Rev. McElvick took ministerial license with his crossword construction this is an unusual one, you'll admit.

No Merchant Should Overlook This Trade Building Opportunity

Day after day, week in and week out, the doors of these 12,000 homes are open to the message of wide-awake, progressive merchants through the medium of the advertising columns of the Post-Crescent. You can talk to these 50,000 readers every day without offending a single one of them by your persistency. The housewife or busy businessman would surely resent a daily visit, a daily phone call or a circular in every mail telling of your store and its trading advantages, but not so with your daily message in the newspaper. Why the difference?—Because the newspaper is a welcome daily visitor. They want it to the extent that they are willing to pay for it.

Then too, when cost is considered there's no other way in which you can every day approach so many prospective customers at so low a cost. Advertising in the Post-Crescent is by far the cheapest method of reaching these 12,000 homes in Appleton's Trade area. Merchants in making up their advertising appropriation for 1925 should bear these important facts in mind. It's an advertising opportunity which should not be overlooked.

A VERY GRAND RIDDLE
"We want some more riddles please," said the Twins.
"Good," said the Riddle Lady. "I'm just trying to think up a good one." Nancy and Nick got as close as ever they could, but the Fat Man of Bombay puffed so loudly when he breathed, poor thing, that it didn't do much good. They were sure they weren't going to hear a word.

"He sits on a throne, And he rides a white horse, And he wears twenty rings on his hand, Rows of soldiers stand stiffly, Not moving of course, Just waiting to do his command. A dozen long feathers, Adorn his fine hat, And a buckle both handsome and big, And his hair's curled so finely, I'm positive that Any person would think 'twas a wig."

"His robe is of velvet, And trimmed up with ermine, As white as the midwinter snows, And as silkworms made silk, 'Tis hard to determine, Ten thousand worked hand on his hose."

"Set with rubies bright red, And with diamonds and sapphires, Oh, it surely must be Quite a load on his head, And-muss up all his periwig curls."

"He lives in a castle, On top of a hill, Mid gardens where dicker-birds sing, And when you're grown up, He'll be living there still, This story-book, fairy-tale."

"King!" cried everybody, just like that.
"Oh, dear, I just knew I was making it too easy," said the Riddle Lady. "I can't give a prize to everybody."

"Oh, that's all right," said Nick kindly. "But why did you say he was just a story-book king, or a fairy-tale king?"

"Well," said the Riddle Lady, "he cause read kings don't dress up like that except on very special occasions. But in story books they always do. And in fairy tales."

"That's so," said the Wise-Man-of-Our-Town. "A king can't wear his crown when he goes to bed, can he? Although I've heard it said 'Unceasy lies the head that wears a crown.' But I've always had my doubts."

CHEESE GRADING CHAOTIC. IN NEED OF SINGLE BASIS

President of Wisconsin Cheese-makers Addresses Convention

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Cheese graders in Wisconsin must be placed on a more uniform and a better basis if the industry is to continue to progress, according to a statement made before the Wisconsin Cheese Makers association convention here Wednesday by H. A. Rindt, Clintonville, president in his annual address.

Cheese grading in Wisconsin is in such chaos that the buyer does not always know what he is buying when he goes to the market to purchase the product, the speaker said. Until the legislature provides adequate laws for proper cheese grading it will be folly to extensively advertise Wisconsin cheese, he said.

Besides scoring the cheese grading methods in this state, Mr. Rindt hit the methods of advertising cheese. He said with a proper system of grading the financial interests and the press of the state would get behind the Wisconsin cheese industry and push it to greater achievements.

Such aid from bankers and editors has already been promised, according to Mr. Rindt.

Ninety per cent of the labor on Wisconsin farms can properly be charged up to the dairy industry, the speaker added. Wisconsin he added, although ranking as the twelfth state in population and fourteenth in point of wealth, was first in dairying. The world looks to Wisconsin for dairy leadership and it behooved the state to make good on this reputation, Mr. Rindt said.

To accomplish this Mr. Rindt stated the commonwealth must come forward with a better system of state supervision of cheese making.

MISS GARVEY LEFT ESTATE OF $15,000

Edward Morrow Appointed Administrator of Estate Left Without Will

Since no will was made by Miss Garvey who died after an assault in her home, 525 State-st., several weeks ago, a petition for administration was filed in county court recently by the nearest relatives of the decedent. Her closest relatives were first cousins.

According to the estimate submitted in county court, the estate is worth about $15,000, of which $5,000 is in real estate and about $10,000 in personal property. Miss Garvey owned her home and also had money invested in securities. Edward Morrow was appointed administrator of the estate by Judge V. Heilmann.

Miss Garvey met death under mysterious circumstances. According to the coroner, death was caused by shock resulting from an assault. No traces were left by her assailant, however.
